Flames lit up the sky on the St. Joseph river Friday night as St. Joseph's municipal dump on Industrial island burned again. Firemen were still working this morning to extinguish the blaze which routed hundreds or possibly thousands of rats. The two specimens pictured here posed for the photographer after reaching temporary safety. Unlike the wildlife critters protected by Smokey the Bear, little sympathy was shown for the rodents displaced by fire. "Rat bashing" is pastime of some youths to relieve frustration and also reduce the population of vermin. Messy dump fires will be a thing of the past when Northwestern Berrien County Sanitation Authority operates sanitary landfill for Twin Cities. It also should mean end of the rat colony.

Theft-Bent Pair Beat BH Grocer

William Golka
Saved As Wife,
Son Home

William Golka, 73-year-old Benton Harbor retired grocer, was beaten Friday night by two young white men who invaded his home in a robbery attempt. Golka sustained bruises on the face in the attack by brass knuckles. He was admitted to St. Joseph Memorial hospital for treatment and a checkup to determine if the beating had aggravated a heart condition. Nothing was taken from the home.

Mrs. Golka told Benton Harbor police she and her son William, Jr., arrived at the home, 1026 Lavette street, while the attack was in progress.

"KILL HIM, KILL HIM!" "I heard someone say 'kill him, kill him,' and one rushed out of the house telling me 'your husband is about to have a heart attack and needs your attention.'"

The two escaped and a police search of the neighborhood did not turn up any suspects. The assault was reported to police at 9:25 p.m.

Mrs. Golka said her husband was home alone watching television. He went to the door to admit the two youths, believing at first it was the newspaper boy coming to collect. Golka tried to defend himself and struck one of the assailants, breaking his sun glasses.

Mrs. Golka explained that after a previous robbery they no longer keep money in the home. Because of his heart condition, Golka has retired from active management of the family grocery store at 268 East Empire avenue.

HISTORIC OPENING: Oronoko township Supervisor Robert Feather, building committee chairman, holds up a copy of the St. Joseph Saturday Herald, during ceremonies Friday that marked opening of a copper box that had been sealed in the cornerstone of the old courthouse in St. Joseph since July 4, 1895. The Herald and copies of 15 other county newspapers of the day, along with various other items, were contained in the tightly-packed box. Courthouse Building Superintendent Florian Rettig, who cut the box open, helped remove the historic contents.

Nasser Rejects U.S. Peace Bid

By Associated Press
Private U.S. talks with Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser to end the announced Egyptian blockade of the Gulf of Aqaba have failed, the Washington Post reported early today.

The newspaper said Charles Yost, U.S. special envoy sent recently to Cairo, has been unable to bridge Nasser's stand on blockading the gulf.

The Post quoted unidentified U.S. officials as saying the breakdown in talks may result in the use of force, including a test of the blockade in about 10 days, probably by a tanker escorted by naval vessels.

The State Department declined comment.

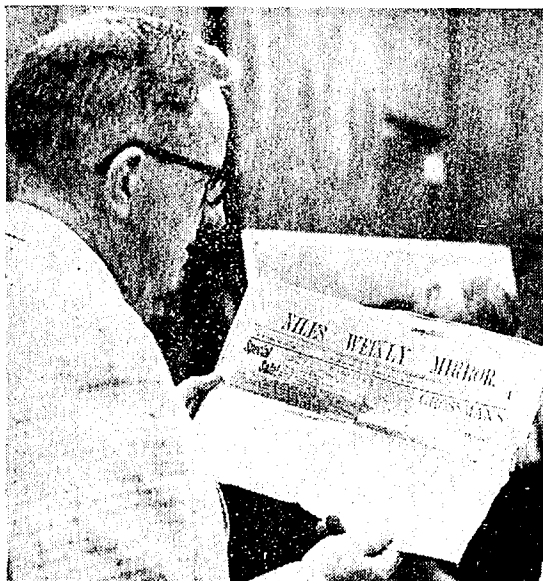

American officials told the newspaper Nasser evidently intends to prevent ships of all nations carrying oil and what he considers strategic materials from reaching the Israeli port of Elath at the end of the gulf.

British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, conferring with President Johnson in Washington, warned Friday that if Egypt carries out its threat to block the gulf, a conflict going beyond the Middle East "might be only a matter of hours."

Meanwhile, an Egyptian envoy to Brazil claimed Friday that Egypt has no intention of destroying Israel, diplomatic sources reported. The gulf blockade issue held

Military Doctor Gets 3 Years

Found Guilty
Of Disloyalty, Disobedience

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Capt. Howard B. Levy, the Army doctor who refused to train Vietnam-bound Green Beret medics, was dismissed from the Army today and sentenced to three years in prison for disloyalty and disobedience.

Earlier, Levy's attorneys had asked a military tribunal not to send the Army doctor to jail on conviction of disloyalty and disobedience charges.

"He emphatically does not belong in jail," said Laughlin McDonald, one of the defense lawyers, in brief arguments. The court panel went into closed session to consider the punishment for Levy who could get up to eight years in prison.

Two of the five charges were dismissed today on a motion by Army prosecutor Capt. Richard Shusterman.

Levy had been charged on two specifications of an intent to promote disloyalty as a result of a letter written to Sgt. 1/c Jeffrey Hancock while the sergeant was serving in Vietnam in 1965. The court-martial board reduced the charges from intent to promote disloyalty to culpable negligence. Shusterman told the court the government considered the lesser finding as a ruling of innocent on those two charges.

Levy, 30, a Brooklyn-born dermatologist at Ft. Jackson Army Hospital, was convicted Friday of disobeying orders to train Green Beret medics and of promoting disloyalty among troops by making statements opposing U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

The 10-member tribunal of career Army officers, four of them Vietnam veterans, reconvened today to consider defense arguments for a lighter sentence.

Foes Of Smoking To Get Air Time

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cigarette manufacturers who advertise their brands with radio and television commercials may in the future be assuring free air time to groups opposing smoking.

The Federal Communications Commission ordered Friday that stations broadcasting cigarette ads must provide an unspecified amount of time to anti-smoking programs.

The order said stations could try to sell time for the anti-smoking programming. But it said if no sponsor could be found, the time would have to be provided free of charge.

The commission didn't spell out specific amounts of time it expects stations to give anti-smoking programs. It left to the stations "the type of programming and the amount and nature of time to be afforded," saying it relied on the "good faith, reasonable judgment" of each broadcaster.

ANSWERS COMPLAINT

The commission's ruling, in a 7-0 vote, came in response to a complaint filed by John F. Banzhaf III of New York against television station WGBS-TV in that city.

Banzhaf wrote the FCC last Jan. 5 saying WGBS-TV while broadcasting many cigarette commercials, failed to offer him or anyone else a chance "to present contrasting views on the issue of the benefits and advisability of smoking."

Banzhaf requested equal time — corresponding approximately with the amount given to cigarette advertising. The commission rejected this request.

It said granting equal time in such a case probably would result in "either the elimination or substantial curtailment of broadcast cigarette advertising."

The FCC suggested a station might discharge its antismoking responsibility by presenting weekly announcements from the American Cancer Society or other groups which claim smoking is hazardous.

DUTY TO INFORM

The commission said it based its ruling on the theory that a station which carries cigarette ads has "the duty of informing its audience of the other side of this controversial issue of public importance — that however enjoyable, such smoking may be a hazard to the smoker's health."

Say U.S. Bombed Soviet Ship

Report One Of Crew Dead,
Six Injured

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet charge that two U.S. jets bombed a Russian ship off North Vietnam killing one crewman and injuring six, heightened chances today of a showdown with Moscow over raids by American planes in areas of Soviet shipping.

Shortly after Moscow received a report Friday from the captain of the Soviet ship Turkestan, Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko handed a sharp protest to the U.S. Embassy's minister-counselor, John C. Guthrie.

"In the event of a recurrence of such actions on the part of U.S. armed forces," Gromyko's note reportedly said, "the Soviet Union will be compelled to take appropriate measures to ensure the safety of its ships."

"The Soviet government insists, firstly, on the strict punishment of those responsible for the attack on the Soviet ship and, secondly, awaits assurances that there will be no recurrence of actions like this in respect of Soviet ships."

U.S. SILENT

The U.S. Embassy had no immediate comment and forwarded the note to Washington.

The United States neither confirmed nor denied that U.S. planes bombed the ship, which the Soviets said was anchored in the harbor of Cam Pha, 50 miles north of Haiphong.

U.S. spokesmen have noted that American planes have tried to avoid hitting Soviet or other foreign vessels in raids along the North Vietnamese coast. The United States has answered earlier Soviet charges of hitting ships by saying that falling North Vietnamese antiaircraft shells were to blame.

Pravda, the official Communist party newspaper, printed the protest note on its front page today.

It commented: "It would be a mistake if the provocateurs did not fully consider the seriousness of the warning in the Soviet government's note. The sponsors of this kind of provocation evidently have a poor understanding of the situation and do not fully consider that they may be given a fitting rebuff."

A Choice Of Wars

Not quite 20 years ago Lyndon B. Johnson survived the narrowest squeeze of his life.

He won the 1948 Senatorial primary in Texas over Gov. Coke Stevenson by 87 votes.

That margin among the couple million ballots cast is the smallest percentage in modern times affecting a major issue, and caused LBJ's enemies in the Lone Star State to refer to him as Landslide Lyndon for several years.

LBJ went on to confound his critics. Although his friends questioned his acceptance of the running mate assignment with John F. Kennedy in 1960 as a step toward political oblivion, fate turned a hand in his favor. Three years later an assassin elevated Johnson into the No. 1 citizen of his country.

Today LBJ faces a more nerve racking position than when he was waiting for the final returns in his fight with the Stevenson establishment.

The Moslem world and the state of Israel face one another with bayonets fixed on the question of international shipping rights at the northern tip of the Red sea.

The crisis is one manufactured by Egypt's President Nasser.

A week ago he proclaimed the waters adjacent to the port of Aqaba to be Egyptian territory and that he will use force to close the Israeli port of Eilat across the straight from Aqaba to such shipping as he chooses.

The Israelis maintain they will force a passage for their vessels regardless of what the UN or other countries may do.

Unless LBJ can find an international consensus to hold the belligerents in check, the chance for a full scale shooting war is better than the diplomatic experts have been stating in their interviews for public consumption.

Most of the experts feel Nasser is raising the Aqaba issue to take the minds of his countrymen off their declining economic condition.

The Egyptian treasury is bankrupt, thanks to a series of hare brained socialistic schemes to establish an industrial economy in a country void of the resources to sustain the venture.

The population explosion of 50 per cent in the 15 years since Nasser established himself as the country's dictator is more than the four per cent arable land area can feed.

On the Arabian peninsula Nasser has an army of 40,000 troops trying to subdue the Yemen province. In the words of Nasser's aides, "This is our Viet Nam. We can't pull out even though we might want to."

All this adds up to an internal bonfire which if left to its own devices might lead to Nasser's ouster.

The standard remedy throughout all history for a leader harassed at home is to find a scapegoat abroad.

The festering hostility between Arab and Jew ever since the UN created the state of Israel in 1947 is Nasser's ready made outlook.

Whether the Kremlin pushed Nasser into his present position is less to the point than the fairly apparent conclusion that the Russian leadership believes the Aqaba dispute is handy trading stock to cool off the Viet Nam war.

Thus, unless LBJ can pull a rabbit out of the hat, he faces some uncomfortable decisions.

One is the choice of which is more important in the long run to U.S. policy, the Mid East or the Far East.

The other is the guessing game of whether Russia and the U.S. can build Johnson's "bridges to understanding" or if the two ideologies each nation represents must continue in a cold war.

We have never been overly taken with the art of summitry, the direct negotiation between heads of states, because all of them have ended in mutual recrimination.

This might be the time, however, to try again.

LBJ and Kossygin are homespun politicians. They are about the same age and each has risen to eminence through similar methodology.

This is a personal background completely opposite that of the Eisenhower and Kennedy vs. Khrushchev confrontation or of the Truman vs. Stalin years.

Some people might be shuffled out of the deck in such a meeting, Nasser and the Israelis impartially, and Ho Chi Minh might reap a dividend.

The alternative, though, could be the whirlwind that Hitler promised as the alternative to his losing gamble.

Dreams Necessary

Dreams formerly fascinated poets. Now they intrigue psychologists. Since it was established that everyone dreams, whether he remembers it or not, a number of studies have attempted to determine just what a dream is, why does it occur and what does it mean.

In the process, much has been discovered about dreams—except the answers to three main questions. It is known that almost everybody dreams an average of four times every night. The first dream may be as short as 10 minutes, but as time goes on they may last an hour or more.

Many psychologists now tend to the theory that everyone has a need to dream. They don't know why, or whether the need is biological, psychological or both. But the need was pointed out dramatically in recent experiments in which the subjects were prevented from dreaming.

After being deprived of the inability to dream for two weeks, one man who was normally taciturn and inhibited suddenly became carefree. He reported that he went to a nightclub and permitted himself to be thrown out for deliberately not buying anything, a circumstance which ordinarily would have embarrassed him greatly.

Another man became highly suspicious of everyone after 14 dreamless nights. Both men returned to normal personality patterns after being permitted to dream again.

Sigmund Freud was the first to maintain that dreams were a safety valve permitting the subject to work off excess tensions. Current research has shown that animals and babies shortly after birth also dream, which suggests there are evolutionary reasons for dreaming not yet understood.

The more science understands about dreams, the more it understands the whole human psyche.

No Rug For Him

Isn't medical science wonderful? Heres' Hugh Downs of the tee wee growing bald. He had a headpiece, but that wasn't enough, so he turned to the doctors.

In a series of operations Downs described as similar to sodding a lawn, he had skin taken from the back of his head and grafted on the front and now is sporting a luxuriant growth of hair.

Next, no doubt, he'll need a lawnmower.

Lyons, France, has a history of inventiveness. Here the first steamship made its trial run. The city became the world's silk capital after the mulberry tree was introduced. Jacquard invented his loom in Lyons. Ampere worked on the laws of electrostatics that led to today's great hydroelectric works. The brothers Lumiere experimented with the movie camera, the National Geographic says.

Chimney sweeps in Basel, Switzerland, still wear traditional top hats; they carry ladders and brooms. But some have added a modern touch. They use portable vacuum cleaners, the National Geographic says.

EMOTIONAL?

The Grand Mere Association has been accused of being emotional. I'm wondering if the people making this accusation realize that the members of the association have only a strong concern and feeling that the preservation of our natural resources will benefit all people and children of future generations. Or are the accusers just making a vicious attack on the personalities involved?

Have we come to the place in this world that one should be ridiculed if he shows emotion by the fallen tear at the death of a child? Should we be like the sidewalk spectators in New York who stood idly by and watched as a young woman was being murdered?

If it is emotional people, or better expressed, people who care and concern themselves that give their all to save what is good in this land for our people, then God bless them and we hope for more like them.

The Herald-Press:

SHE OPPOSES ANY REZONING

It is this writer's observation and feelings that no acreage of the Grande Mere should be rezoned for commercial nor industrial purposes.

It is further the feelings of this writer that the entire acreage of the beautiful Grande Mere remains in its natural state or a large county park to be developed for the residents of Berrien County and visitors of our Berrien County.

Land for the purpose of commerce and industry can be obtained elsewhere in Berrien County.

It is obvious that natural areas and parks are needed here, for Berrien County's people. Let's preserve the natural state of Grande Mere.

MRS. S. CHESTER FROST

Editor,
The Herald-Press:

'PRACTICAL CONSIDERATIONS'

Aside from preservation of the esthetic values of the Grand Mere area, there are practical considerations that make the proposed development program a matter of serious concern for area residents. The use of the Middle Grand Mere Lake as a yacht basin means cutting a channel to Lake Michigan. This, in turn, will lower the level of the entire Grand Mere drainage area from three to five feet — depending on the current level of Lake Michigan.

Since the Grand Mere drainage system covers an area measured in square miles rather than acres, serious consideration should be given to the lowering of the water tables in areas far removed from the proposed development area, according to engineers in both government and private practice. At this point, there have been no serious engineering studies of this problem, to my knowledge. If this situation is not carefully analyzed, farms and residences far from the development area may have to face acute water shortages — either in the immediate or distant future — or go to expense of deepening wells and spending additional money on pumping costs.

Of particular concern to residents adjacent to the North Grand Grand Mere Lake is the problem of maintaining the lake level. It is a relatively simple problem to pump water into the lake to maintain its present level. However, who will pay for the initial and maintenance costs. Who will inspect the pumping station and guarantee that it will remain in continuous operation? Also, there is the threat of pollution created by pumping the waters from a relatively stagnant harbor fouled by human wastes into what must surely be a stagnant North Lake with a flow only sufficient to maintain its legally established level. Private water supplies will be affected as well as beaches to the south of the present North Lake outflow.

The public health, safety, and welfare of a large group of Lincoln Township residents is at stake if the Grand Mere area is developed. And it is not just these residents in the immediate area who would suffer. Detailed engineering studies are indicated before this development proceeds, the public officials should assume the responsibility for seeing that they are carried out — whether with public funds or with private funds provided by developers.

TAKES ISSUE WITH WRITER

In reply to the letter written by Mr. Litzinger regarding the June 6th referendum vote on Grand Mere, I feel there are several points he is either misinformed about, or has not followed township action closely enough to realize what restrictions do protect residential zoning.

At the suggestion of the Grand Mere Association and with the cooperation of their attorney and the township attorney, the Township Board adopted a "mineral removal" ordinance on May 16, 1966. This prohibits the removal of more than 4,000 cubic yards of sand within one year unless granted a permit by the Township Board. Therefore, when I-94 was constructed, the township had no control over sand mining.

speaking of YOUR HEALTH

By Lester L. Coleman, M. D.

The transfusion of blood was once considered treacherous and used only during dire emergencies. Over the years the refinement in blood groupings and in the processing of the blood have reduced the after-effects of transfusion to a minimum. Today, transfusions are given to infants and adults almost as readily as routine medication.

The collection and storage of blood has always depended on the generosity of donors who selflessly give their blood that others may survive. Unfortunately, the former methods for preservation of blood did not allow it to be kept indefinitely.

In many instances, valuable blood had to be discarded within two or three weeks. The result was that critical shortages, especially of unusual blood types, occurred from one week to the next.

This feast or famine situation may soon be remedied because of a new method of freezing blood which can be stored safely for at least two years. More than 4,000 pints of frozen blood have been used safely and successfully at the Massachusetts General Hospital during the past three years.

Other methods have also been tried for long-term preservation of blood. An additional advantage of the new complex freezing technique is that the blood is "washed," removing many injurious components. Hepatitis due to a hidden virus in the donor's blood can, by this method, be prevented.

Dr. Charles E. Huggins of the Harvard Medical School, is most enthusiastic about the possibility of preventing hepatitis. He said, "If the freedom from hepatitis continues, "washing" of all blood before any transfusion may be mandatory." This is a significant addition to the further safety and greater use of transfusions.

Hydrocephalus is a word derived from the Greek which means water in the head. This condition is one of the birth abnormalities in which there is an accumulation of fluid within the skull. When the fluid is permitted to accumulate without surgery, damage to the brain may result.

The prevention of this and other birth defects is the target on which scientists are constantly aiming. Following a pregnancy from the very beginning, the elimination of toxic drugs and the creation of vaccines against German measles and other viral diseases is the heart of this preventive approach.

Now a new drug has appeared on the horizon which seems to offer tremendous hope for the relief of hydrocephalus without surgery. The results are so striking that Dr. David B. Shurtleff, of the University of Washington, says, "We definitely are on the track of a very effective tool for reducing the pressure within the skull."

Dr. Shurtleff and his co-worker, Dr. Patricia Hayden, have given the new drug to 12 babies in the past six months. All of the children had spectacular results with the drug isosorbide, many after the first injection. These gratifying results occurred even in those children on whom surgery was thought to be too risky.

It is the hope of these doctors, who have been seeking such a drug for more than ten years, that surgery may eventually be eliminated when this and other drugs are refined. This magnificent accomplishment owes much to the March of Dimes who sponsors the Birth Defect Center in Seattle.

Opening lead — queen of diamonds.

There is a great deal of ambiguity attached to the term safety play. At times it refers to a play by which declarer can guarantee no losers in a given suit provided he handles the combination of his own cards and dummy's correctly.

Thus, if declarer has A-Q-9-3-2 and dummy has K-10-5-4, he can protect against the loss of a trick in that suit by first leading the ace. If it turns out that either defender was dealt the J-8-7-6, declarer takes the indicated finesse against the jack. Note that if declarer's first lead is the king, he loses a trick if his left-hand opponent has the four missing cards.

Another type of safety play is employed when declarer can afford to lose one trick in a suit, but not two. Thus, with A-10-9-3-2 facing K-8-5-4, he may lead the two and, if the next player follows low, play the eight. This protects against the possibility of losing two tricks if either defender was dealt Q-J-7-6.

Still another form of safety play is directed not so much towards dealing with the combination of cards in a given suit as it is towards the question of dealing with that combination in a particular hand.

Today's hand illustrates this type of problem. Declarer wins the queen of diamonds, cashes the king of hearts, and leads another heart. When West follows low, South finesesses the nine!

Declarer does not expect the nine to win — he double-finesses because he guarantees the contract by doing so. If East wins with the ten or queen, South is sure to make four heart tricks and the contract. As it happens, the safety play yields an unexpected over-trick. Without the safety play, South goes down.

Ordinarily, declarer would finesse the jack because that is the most lucrative play in the long run, but in this deal he invokes the safety play because it assures three notrump.

BORN TODAY

Jefferson Davis, first and only president of the Confederate States of America during the Civil War, was born in 1808 in Todd county, Ky. A graduate of West Point, Davis served in several frontier campaigns, including the Black Hawk War, but resigned his commission in 1835 to retire to the life of a Mississippi planter.

He entered Congress in 1846, re-joined the Army and served with distinction during the Mexican War, and was U.S. senator from Mississippi both before and after joining President Franklin Pierce's cabinet as secretary of War.

When Mississippi seceded from the Union in 1861, Davis left the Senate and a few weeks later became provisional president of the Confederate States, an appointment confirmed in a popular election the following November.

In May, 1865, after the collapse of his government, Davis was captured by Union cavalry and imprisoned for two years in Fortress Monroe, then released on bail. Though indicted for treason, he was never brought to trial and was included in the general amnesty of 1868.

Released from confinement, he traveled abroad and upon his return engaged in small business enterprises before retiring to his estate at Biloxi, Miss., where he wrote "The Rise and Fall of the Confederate Government."

Ironically, Cleveland observed that while the senior class last fall was larger than its June 1966 predecessor, it looks like six fewer will receive diplomas on graduation night. Graduation is scheduled for 8 p.m. Thursday at Filstrup field, or in the gymnasium, in the event of rain.

FEWER GRADUATES

Cleveland said 552 seniors are expected to be graduated, compared to 558 last year. Added will be diplomas to four correspondence students. Twenty-three of these were earned last June.

For one senior, there was a tinge of disappointment for not winning a scholarship.

The commencement week ceremonies open with baccalaureate at 8 p.m. Sunday at the high school.

Janelle Jackson, 18, more than offset this, however, by ranking eighth in her class with a 3.9 grade average out of a possible 4.0.

"I just tense up in competitive examinations," said Janelle.

Challenges Mark Class Night Talks

St. Joseph Catholic High Top Seniors Speak

A triple challenge for the future was issued to St. Joseph Catholic high school seniors in annual class night ceremonies Friday night by the three top students of the class.

"To lead, to give direction, to search, to witness, and to reach out to others, viewing the present as an exciting challenge," was the theme of the valedictory address by Ron Zawilla, while Patti Rock, co-valedictorian, said, "It will be our responsibility to offer warmth to the neglected, light to those blinded by ignorance, and nourishment to those less fortunate than we."

Susan McDonnell in her salutatory speech challenged: "We still have a long way to go and a lot to learn. High school is merely a foundation, a basic preparation. We must go on to more specialized and detailed learning. Our past has been full and gratifying; the blessing and rewards have been great. Let us take the promise and hope of the future and make use of its full capacity."

SPECIAL GIFTS

The three top students received special gifts to commemorate their place in class.

A fourth challenge was issued to the class in a letter read by Zawilla, toastmaster, from President Lyndon B. Johnson which extended the president's best wishes to the senior class. He said, in part, "You and I cherish the same American ideals — ever larger freedoms, ever brighter opportunities for individual fulfillment for our citizens and all mankind. We share the continuing task of perpetuating these ideals and translating them into reality. It is not my job alone, nor yours alone. It is ours together."

Surprise presentations included awarding of the annual Marian Guild scholarship presented this year to Ruth Pridgeon; special citations by vote of their classmates to Ron Zawilla and Patti Rock for outstanding service to St. Joseph Catholic; and medals awarded to outstanding students in the various fields of study: Science, Michael Hill; mathematics, Earl Schulz; Spanish, Patti Rock; history, Debbie Derrick; religion, Susan McDonnell; English, Ron Zawilla; and Latin, Richard Shields. All awards except the Marian Guild scholarship were presented by the Rev. Cletus Rose, pastor.

National merit scholarship qualifying finalist awards were presented to Michael Hill and Earl Schulz, and a letter of commendation for high performance on the National Merit scholarship qualifying test to Ron Zawilla; National Honor Society recognition to Richard Shields, Patti Rock, Mary Ann Foulkes, Debbie Derrick, Carol Jean Kesterke, Karla Armstrong, Randy Holden, and Ron Zawilla.

Bookkeeping certificates were awarded Carol Adent, Michael Hanley, Robert Jaskiewicz, Greg Payovich, Ruth Pridgeon, and Jim Rudnick; and a short-hand certificate to Ruth Pridgeon.

A pin was awarded Debbie Derrick by the Homemakers of America association for placing first in the homemaking test at St. Joseph Catholic.

POETRY CERTIFICATES

National high school poetry press certificates were given Michael Hill and Lyn Smikle; certificates of distinction in the annual high school contest sponsored by the United National association to Susan McDonnell and Paul Sherrington; and Kiwanis certificates for scholastic achievement to Ruth Pridgeon, Dick Shields, Mary Ann Foulkes, Patti Rock, Susan McDonnell, Earl Schulz, Mary Lynn Scheer, Debbie Derrick, Linda Fello, and Ron Zawilla.

Good Pay Stressed By Mittan

One Of Reasons For Bond, Millage Election Tuesday

By JIM SHANAHAN
BHI City Editor

When Benton Harbor gets behind Mendon more citizens than Ray Mittan should be enraged.

Mittan would be irked if the Tigers lost to the Green Bay Packers in football, the Philadelphia 66ers in basketball, or Cambridge in debate. But Mendon?

The small St. Joseph county community on M-60 pays its starting teachers $600 more a year than the big Class A district of Benton Harbor.

"This means that in recruitment of teachers, we're not Class A, we're bush league," said Mittan, whose fierce pride in Benton Harbor extends from Filstrup field to the new library in construction on Wall street.

The Voice of Benton Harbor noted that approval of a 4.25 millage proposal will enable the Benton Harbor school district to become competitive in hiring teachers.

"We've had some great ones here . . . Semler, Perry, Weber, Mrs. Kendall, Victoria Edgecumbe and many others. Let's provide the money to continue to attract good teachers."

School district voters have an opportunity Tuesday to provide the means. Up for election is a 4.25-mill operating tax proposal that will enable the board of education to raise the $5,400 starting salary that lags behind St. Joseph, Buchanan, Three Rivers and many smaller districts in addition to Mendon.

Also on the ballot is a $9,725,000 bond issue that will provide the buildings in which teachers can practice. Richard Seagrave, chairman of the public information committee supporting the bond issue, describes it as a "bare bones program, packed with essentials but no frills."

Only property owners and their spouses can vote on the bond issue. All registered voters in the district can ballot on millage.

Along with putting teacher salaries in line with competitors, the operating millage also meets the increased cost of supplies that climbed steadily the past two years.

Raymond Sreboth, assistant superintendent for business affairs, gave these examples:

• Like industry, the school district has to foot the higher premiums for workmen's compensation insurance. Unlike industry, the schools can't increase the cost for their products.

• Textbooks costs have climbed. Readers costing $2.30 in 1965-66 are now $2.40 and the district supplies free books for students through the eighth grade.

• Cost of construction paper has jumped 10 per cent; floor finishes and treatments up 10 cents a gallon; paper towels up four per cent.

"Many other items have shown corresponding increases. Added all together they represent a significant amount," said Sreboth.

"You notice it on your grocery bill and we notice it in ordering supplies for the education of 11,890 students."

Seagrave, an industrial executive, declared "Benton Harbor is not a spendthrift district. We are among the 25 largest districts in the state, yet we spend $447 per child for education while comparable districts are averaging $486."

SCHOLARSHIP AWARD: Ruth Pridgeon, left, received the scholarship awarded a senior girl at St. Joseph Catholic school each year by the Marian Guild from Mrs. Robin Campbell, right, Friday night. Ruth is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arden Pridgeon, 1313 Grant street, St. Joseph. She plans to attend Lake Michigan college to become a legal secretary. Presentation was made at the new podium with built-in speaker system presented by the seniors to the school and parish. (Staff photo)

ST. JOSEPH, MICH., SATURDAY, JUNE 3, 1967

AMBULANCE CHANGEOVER SET IN VAN BUREN

Sheriff
To Handle
ServiceEleven Funeral
Homes Ending
Operation June 18

PAW PAW — Ambulance service in Van Buren county will become an official function of the county sheriff's office at midnight on June 18.

That's when eleven funeral homes, which for years have been providing the county with ambulance protection, plan to terminate operations.

The changeover will mark an eleven-month period of planning by county officials to provide an effective type of ambulance. Private ambulance operators blamed stringent rules under Medicare and rising expenses when they revealed their intentions for ceasing operations last July 25.

Funeral homes who will cease operations on June 18 include the McKane and Stafford funeral homes in Bangor, Robbins funeral home in Bloomingdale and Gables, Newell funeral home in Decatur, Calvin funeral home in Hartford, Sisson funeral home in Lawrence, Prindle funeral home in Lawton, Hawley and Zolp funeral homes in Paw Paw and the Calvin and Everson funeral homes in South Haven.

OKAYED BY BOARD

The Van Buren county board of supervisors approved the establishment of a countywide ambulance program under the jurisdiction of the sheriff's department at their January meeting.

After June 18 the sheriff's office will dispatch deputy-operated ambulances anywhere in the county except the Sister Lakes area. Volunteer firemen in the Sister Lakes area provide an ambulance service.

The Van Buren county ambulance plan is unique in that the program will be a supplement to regular patrol duties. The plan was devised to keep costs and the expansion of personnel at a minimum, but at the same time provide an adequate service.

The plan approved by the board of supervisors would keep two units on round-the-clock patrol — one in the north half of the county and one in the south. Another would be on a standby basis at the sheriff's office in Paw Paw, a fourth would be used to handle routine work such as private patient transportation and Medicare cases and a fifth would be used as necessary for routine law enforcement and to serve as a backup vehicle in emergencies.

SETS PRECEDENT

The program sets a precedent for supplying ambulance service to an area the size of Van Buren county, county officials say. Cities and other agencies have been known to provide service, but never a county with such a large proportion of land to population.

Eastern Allegan county is currently protected by a county-owned ambulance operated by sheriff deputies but the program was forced upon the county when a private firm severed a two-year contract because of financial losses.

The Van Buren county program has a tentative operating budget of $57,916, but estimated revenue from calls, approximately 2,800 a year, would theoretically leave a balance of only $1,916 to be picked up by the county.

Except for a fully-equipped ambulance stationed at the sheriff's office, the units will be station wagons converted for emergency use. The Calvin Funeral Home in South Haven donated its ambulance to the county. The ambulance will be used primarily to transfer patients and other non-emergency cases.

The unit patrolling the western section of the county will concentrate on the Bangor, Covert and South Haven areas.

The original county plan called for the stationing of an ambulance at the South Haven firehouse. It was to have been staffed by South Haven fire department personnel, but with the county paying all costs.

The South Haven city council rejected the proposal last February after some councilmen expressed the opinion that the plan would not be financially equitable for the city.

Ideally an ambulance will be within 20 minutes of any part of the county.

Persons needing an ambulance after June 18 must call the sheriff's office in Paw Paw, 657-4247.

Putting Differences Aside,
They Back School Bonds

Two years ago Oliver Rector and Clinton Raines disagreed on Benton Harbor school consolidation. Rector, a former president of the Fairplain board of education, adamantly opposed it. Raines, head of a school study committee, backed the merger. Today, they are in agreement on the Benton Harbor bond issue and millage proposal that will be voted on Tuesday. Raines and Rector both urge "Yes" votes. Raines' viewpoint won in the consolidation election of 1965 and he went on to become president of the board of education. Rector was not a sore loser. He has maintained a keen interest in schools and says voters cannot ignore the drastic problem. Here are their statements:

'Let's Turn
The Spirit
On'—RainesBoard President
Addresses Public

CLINTON RAINES

"To the people of the Benton Harbor High School District:

"Two years ago you gave your enthusiastic support to consolidation of the many small school districts into our present school system. The Benton Harbor School district has a wonderful school system with top ratings in all departments. We can be proud of our school's scholastic record.

"This year over 50 percent of our graduating class will continue their education. This is the highest ratio ever achieved in our area.

"Our high school now offers over 100 courses, by far the largest and most complete offering by any school in Berrien county.

"Our outside activities are exceptionally outstanding. Our band is certainly the finest in the Midwest. Our drama, vocal music and the many other outside activities of our high school contribute greatly to the students over all education. Sure we are overcrowded now, but if we all get behind the bond issue and solve this problem with the same enthusiasm we gave consolidation, we will remain the best in Michigan.

GREAT NEED

"Remember business and industry in Benton Harbor account for 63 percent of the tax base and in Benton Township 42 percent, and they endorse the bond proposal because they realize the great need.

"In sports when our Tigers roar all Michigan sits up and takes notice. And as Detroit found out "Tiger Tail Soup" is hard to make if you can't catch the Tiger. Our Tigers have the most enthusiastic rooting section of any team in the state. No distance was too great for our team boosters. Benton Harbor is known all over Michigan for the support they give the athletes, band members, and all other students in their outside activities.

"Let's turn that same spirit on again for the kids and give them the schools and facilities they need. They need our help to prepare for a great future.

"Let's take the first step on June 6, by backing our community schools. The need has never been greater or the goal more vital. These are our kids, let's show them that as voters we're also 'Class A' all the way."

'We Must
All Work
Together'Oliver Rector
Tells His Views

OLIVER RECTOR

"As a former president of the Fairplain school board, I have been asked by many people for my views on the proposed bond issue.

"There was probably no one who was more against Fairplain becoming part of the consolidated Benton Harbor district than I was. One of the reasons that I opposed the consolidation was because I knew that a large and expensive building program would be necessary, and I was afraid that it would be difficult to get the people of the consolidated district to support such a program.

"Whether we were for or against consolidation is now water over the dam, for the people voted to become one large district, and no matter what our personal feelings may be, there is nothing that we can do to change this.

MUST DO SOMETHING

"I have had people tell me that they weren't going to vote for the bond issue because they didn't like this or that part of the proposed building program. Frankly, there are parts of the program that I don't like, and because of this, I have to look at the bond issue with mixed emotions. However, we MUST do something to relieve the overcrowding that exists, particularly on the junior and senior high school levels.

"One of the slogans for consolidation was 'Better Education for Less Money.' We can forget about the 'for less money' because there is just no way of providing a good education cheaply. We must all work for 'better education.'

"I feel that not enough emphasis has been put on the great need for the extra millage for operation. This is equally as important as the bond issue and is necessary to pay the increased costs of maintaining our present program for the 1967-1968 school year. Necessary teacher salary increases and increases in the cost of supplies will absorb most of this additional money.

INVESTING IN FUTURE

"We all have a lot invested in our Benton Harbor community

— our homes, our jobs, our businesses, and I hope, our future. We have tremendous problems in our community that must be solved if we are to protect our investments. Our schools are only a part of the problem, but nevertheless, an important part.

"I believe that we have ignored our problems and have tried to hide from them too long. I feel that our school problem brings us to the crossroads where we must turn either right or left. I sincerely hope that we will make the right turn and support our schools with our concern and our dollars. We can make this a good community to live in only if each of us is willing to carry his fair share of the burden.

"The election Tuesday, June 6, is the first time since consolidation that we have been given an opportunity to support our consolidated school program. This is our chance to prove that we want a good education for our children, and are willing to pay for it."

Senators
Broaden
Pension RollLane Wonders If
System Is Wrong

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's senators, well protected under their own pension plan, were in a generous mood Friday as they passed several bills to extend pension benefits to others.

One measure will bring the deputy court administrator for Michigan's probate courts into the pension plan for probate court judges.

Only one man, Robert L. Drake of Lansing, the present administrator and a former Ingham County probate judge, will benefit.

Sen. Robert Vanderlaan, R-Grand Rapids, said he believed the exception was worthwhile since otherwise it would be difficult to attract a former judge familiar with the workings of the court to take the post.

LANE OBJECTS

Sen. Garland Lane, D-Flint, objected this might be setting a precedent.

"If you make an exception here," it will grow," he said. "Pretty soon you'll be talking about the secretary of the judge back home—that she's a wonderful person and should come under the pension plan."

"Then it will be all the clerks of the House and the secretaries of the Senate. Then all our secretaries."

"I'm wondering if we did wrong with the legislature," Lane mused aloud, referring to the pension system for law-makers.

In another pension exception, the Senate amended a law requiring circuit court judges to forfeit their pension rights if they serve after the age of 70. The Senate also made a gallant bow in the direction of the two new women troopers recently sworn in by State Police—the first ladies on the force.

This would change the state police pension plan to specify that benefits go to spouses—not just widows.

If the two attractive young troopers marry, their husbands will have the added attraction of receiving a pension in the event they survive their state policemen wives.

Lane proved he is not entirely anti-pension, however.

He amended the bill to provide that the widows of two state troopers killed during the line of duty near Flint in 1956 should receive pensions.

Lane said it was his understanding that the widows of the two troopers, George Lappi and Bert Pozza, were not eligible. The troopers were killed when a husband went berserk hit his wife with a shovel and then stood off a state police siege for more than an hour with a rifle.

State Police said the widows already were receiving a pension since their husbands were killed in the line of duty.

"I didn't know that," Lane commented. "But I did want to do right by the widows since everyone else in the state seems to be getting pensions."

FOR OUTDOORSMEN
Several bills of interest to outdoorsmen were passed by the Senate.

One would permit legless and

SEN. GARLAND LANE

completely disabled persons to hunt upland game from a vehicle. It also would permit the use of flintlock or percussion cap muzzle loading rifles for deer hunting in certain areas.

Another would set this fall's quail hunting season for the last 10 days of the pheasant season and 10 days thereafter.

A third would permit the State Conservation Department to accept federal funds for the development of salmon and steelhead trout fishing.

Sen. Frank Beadle, R-St. Clair, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, tacked on an amendment specifying this does not commit the legislature to authorizing further funds for such projects.

The Senate met for two hours Friday, passing 20 minor bills and then recessed until 3 p.m. Monday.

North State Street Will Be ClosedWidening Project
Planned In S.J.

North State street in St. Joseph will be closed for eight weeks this summer for widening operations. Work is scheduled to start Monday.

Heavy traffic to the Edgewater industrial area will have to be channeled on the up and down ramps at North State street.

Engineer Robert Barnes said the normally illegal left turn at the north end of Blossomland bridge, for autos driving on the ramp, will be permitted during peak traffic periods under police supervision only.

North State street from Virginia court to Clock road will be widened to 36 feet and paved with concrete. At present it is paved with brick placed on sand and the surface is uneven.

Owners Are Reminded Of LawDog Census Now
On In Berrien

Berrien dog owners are asked to take special care this time of year to see that their pets aren't allowed to run loose.

It's flower and garden time and new plants are just getting their start. Chief Berrien Dog Warden Stanley Wolkins said he is getting reports every day of dogs damaging new gardens and flower beds.

According to the state leash law, dogs are not supposed to roam at any time, Wolkins added, but right now garden and flower enthusiasts are making a special appeal to dog owners to see that the law is complied with.

The law says a dog must be kept on the owner's property unless being taken for a walk and kept under careful control. Between sunset and sunrise no dog is supposed to be outside, even in his own yard, unless kept on a chain or in an enclosure.

DOG CENSUS

Berrien county's dog census is now getting underway, Wolkins added, and dog owners should see that their pets have licenses.

The license should be on the dog's collar at all times. This aids census takers, he said, and will provide identification if the dog should get lost or be picked up by a dog warden.

If a dog loses his license a duplicate can be obtained from the dog pound at no cost to the owner.

SJ Planners Confirm
First Block Six Plans

The St. Joseph Planning Commission confirmed approval of original plans for development of Block Six—urban renewal site bounded by Ship, Church, Port and Court streets—yesterday in St. Joseph commission chambers.

The planners sent to the urban renewal office recommendations for Block Six planning.

They approved sale of enough land to give Berrien County Abstract Co. additional parking but retained an 18-foot easement so eventual developers of the lot next door could reach it by going through the Abstract office's lot.

NO PARKING ACCESS

No access to parking should be permitted from either Ship or Port streets, which eventually will be one-way sections of I-94 business route, the planners said.

The planners approved in principle the idea to turn the present alley in Block Six into a pedestrian mall. Considerable foot traffic between the new courthouse and a proposed office building planned by Consumers Coal and Oil is being studied for Block Six. Because a restaurant is proposed in the new building and because Berrien county Courthouse has only a canteen there is expected to be considerable foot traffic between the two structures.

The proposed mall would be 20 feet wide. The builders would have to maintain it, however, urban renewal director Tom Daley said.

AWAIT FORMAL REQUEST

Planners took no action on a months-old request to sell the site of the east yacht basin. The planners decided to wait for a formal request for the property. Two months ago Whirlpool Corp. and J. V. Burkette and John Yerington both expressed interest in the property—Whirlpool for parking and the contractors for storage of bulk cargo that would come in by boat.

The three firms had taken the proposals back, saying they would work out a compromise. The planners however said the proposal now should go to the city commission first before the planners tackled it.

Youths Are Attacked At Beach

Berrien county sheriff's deputies said two South Bend teenagers reported they were the victims of an assault early today at Wilderness beach in Lake township.

Deputy Ed Behnke said Kenneth Dale Richmond, 18, suffered a cut nose and Douglas Michael Wilfong, 17, suffered bruises. Both were released after treatment at Memorial hospital in St. Joseph.

Behnke said the two youths reported they were assaulted about 12:30 a.m. after a group of other young men came to the youths' campfire and asked if they had beer.

Deputy Behnke said several young men voluntarily agreed to be seen by Wilfong and Richmond at the hospital.

In other cases reported Thursday:

Ralph Sprague of Three Oaks reported the theft of four wheel covers valued at $45 while the car was parked in the Calien high school parking lot during graduation ceremonies.

Blue Chip Stocks Pay Good Dividends, Reader Reminded

By SAM SHULSKY

Q. — In a recent column a reader boasted of success based on a program of selling a stock when the price rises to a point where the yield is less than bank interest. Where can he find any stock on the Big Board paying more than current savings and loan interest?

A. — I don't know what figure you have in mind for savings and loan interest. Nor do you mention the quality of stock or the growth potential you demand.

But just for the sake of some "name dropping," I'm sure you've heard of these old-line companies, most of which are yielding at least 5 per cent — based on market levels as of the day your letter arrived:

American Smelting, American Tobacco, Anaconda, Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, Chesapeake & Ohio, Columbia Gas, General Motors, Inland Steel, Kroger, Libbey-Owens-Ford, Liggett & Myers Tobacco, National Lead, Norfolk & Western, Phelps Dodge, Pullman, R.J. Reynolds, Standard Oil of N.J., U.S. Steel, Universal Leaf Tobacco. And there are more.

I'll grant you there aren't many "go-go" stocks among them but many do have unbroken dividend records going back 30, 40 and 50 years — and even more — and that isn't anything an income seeker can dismiss lightly.

WRONG STOCK
Q. — I am 69, hold good growth stocks, but find they are no good unless one knows when to sell them. Meanwhile, the yield is low.

A. — If you're 69, and dependent upon this investment for income, it should not be in growth stocks, but in income stocks. The time to sell is when you must convert your money into an income-providing investment.

SINKING FUND
Q. — Please explain "sinking fund debenture." Are stocks of this type safe?

A. — A debenture is a bond, not a share of stock. If you hold a debenture, you are a creditor of the company, not an owner. A sinking fund is money set aside by a company from time to time to pay off bonds or preferred shares under a schedule set forth in the indenture under which the bonds or preferred were originally issued. Some sinking funds are scheduled to pay off all the issue by a certain date; other to pay off part of an issue.

A sinking fund doesn't make a bond "safe," but I suppose one could assume that all other things being equal, the existence of the sinking fund helps. Ask the N.Y. Stock Exchange, Dept. SU, Box 252, New York 5, N.Y. for a copy of its glossary called "The Language of Investing."

Grand Mere Area Land Owner Dies

Property Is Not Involved In Vote

Philip A. Shapiro, a Chicago circuit court judge and one of the three principal land owners in the Grand Mere area, died Friday in Presbyterian-St. Luke's hospital at Chicago. He was 59.

Tuesday's referendum on the Grand Mere zoning ordinance does not involve his land.

The 300 acres involved in the zoning controversy are held by Victor S. Peters, a Chicago lawyer, and by Russell Manley and Fred Davis, partners in the Manley Sand company.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 10 a.m. from a mortuary at 3019 Peterson avenue, in Chicago.

WEALTHY JUDGE

Judge Shapiro was regarded as one of the wealthiest members of the Chicago court system.

He acquired the bulk of a multi-million dollar fortune through inheritance from an uncle, Jacob Grosby, a real estate operator, who died in 1955.

He was a 1931 graduate from Northwestern university's law school.

Judge Shapiro first went on the circuit court in Chicago in 1964. Prior to that time he had been a master in chancery for the court. Prior to his election as a judge, he had been alderman of the 14th ward for five years and its Democratic committeeman for 14 years before that time.

Surviving are the widow, Barbara; two sons, Jerrold and Harvey; a brother; and two sisters.

Car Hits Pole, Woman Hurt

Mrs. James (Dora) Vandagriff, 37, 112 Huron street, Buchanan, suffered cuts and bruises about 7:50 p.m. Friday when her car hit a telephone pole at Ryerson and Morland road in Buchanan township, Berrien county sheriff's deputies said.

Cpl. Charles Tiefenbach said Mrs. Vandagriff was treated at Niles Pawating hospital and released. She told him she didn't know what happened, he reported.

Tiefenbach said the car went off the road and struck the pole, which snapped off about 12 feet above ground.

Deputies also reported investigating a car-train crash Friday morning at Dean's Hill road a half-mile east of Huckleberry road in Berrien township, but no one was injured.

Cpl. John Gillespie said the driver, Benjamin Gubin, 45, Kalamazoo, reported he was unable to avoid the train, a New York Central motorized rail detector car. Both vehicles were able to proceed under their own power after the crash, Gillespie said.

The diploma was presented to him May 3, in his hospital bed. Looking on are William Carr, his guidance counselor, and his mother, Mrs. John Kist. Michael died less than two weeks later.

The Grand Mere Association does not "promote residential zoning for this interchange area." The Association has made public statements at township meetings, in mailings and via the news media that they would not object to the interchange being zoned commercial.

Unfortunately Mr. Litzinger is leaving the area and he will not be able to attend township meetings or get local mailings — otherwise he might get his facts straight.

Policeman Is Attacked By Students

BERKLEY (AP)—A police officer in this Detroit suburb was besieged with rocks, belittled with words and bearded with the actions of several hundred Berkeley High School students Friday.

The incident occurred after the officer pulled over a speeding car near the high school's parking lot.
After arriving at the scene, Frank Stubbfield signalled a driver of a fast-moving car to pull over, but then found himself surrounded by hundreds of apparently angry students. Stubbfield said he was "disgusted and ashamed" that any police officer "has to put up with a situation like this."

No arrests were made.
